

The Referral Formula

One of the best ways to “optimize” and leverage your Marketing investments is to get Referrals from as many customers as possible. If you or your business interacts with customers directly, you can multiply the amount of referrals you get - by adding a few simple steps to your process.

How could you incorporate Referrals into the relationships you build with Customer right from the beginning?

What are the emotional “Windows Of Opportunity” that your Customer experiences - that you could connect with them in - and make a powerful service impression?

How could you give your Customer unique, interesting, fun stories to tell others - so they automatically tell others about you and your Product or Service?
