

Commit To Becoming A Marketer

We tend to behave in relationship to how we see ourselves and how we define ourselves in the world. To succeed in business, it's important to identify yourself mentally as a Marketer - as someone who pro-actively goes out and uses the tools you're learning in this program to get Customers for your business. If you have unconsciously avoided learning Marketing or Sales because you had biases or prejudices against these professions, now is the time to change this thought process!

Where have I avoided the identity of "Marketer" in my life and in my business, and why?

What can I do today to begin shifting my identity from a reactive "job" mentality to a pro-active Marketing mentality?

What fear will I need to overcome to succeed as a Marketer, and what will I have to do in order to overcome it?
