

Your Customer Avatar's Ultimate Scenario

We learn an important skill when we're around 4 years old: We learn to EMPATHIZE. Most of us never practice this skill proactively, so we experience only a fraction of the value and benefit we could get from this amazing skill. To practice, write a narrative, from your customer's perspective telling the story of being in a painful, frustrating situation without knowing what to do... discovering the valuable solution that YOU offer... taking advantage of it... and then experiencing the benefit. Focus on irrational, emotional fears, fantasies and drivers - and the emotions felt once the solution is found and realized.

Describe your Customer Avatar's Ultimate Scenario here in narrative form - in their words, from their perspective:
