

Session 8: Marketing as Education

Key Points...

1. It's easy to forget that most people have no clue...
 - Most people who are experiencing a need have very little education about their problem - and about how to solve it successfully.
 - Even with access to so much information, most people are still in "quiet desperation"
2. Educate as you market and sell your products & services.
 - Education can be used successfully to both help people solve their problems & to help people SEE their problems.
 - Educating also helps build credibility and trust, which are essential to ACTION.
3. Content Marketing:
 - A new "form" of Marketing has evolved with the mainstream adoption of the internet.
 - This is called "Content Marketing"- which is basically creating content that attracts Prospective Customers.
 - This is really the ultimate "Education Marketing" - as it's typically in the form of an educational tip or video.
4. Beware of the content trap...
 - Content Marketing is also very alluring to those "Marketing Chickens" who would prefer to avoid any kind of Selling or Marketing.
 - But don't get distracted - the best Content Marketing uses all of the "power tools" of Direct Marketing - it doesn't "skip" them.
5. Editorial Marketing:
 - A time-tested way to increase attention, interest and response to your Marketing is to format it into an "Editorial" style or design.
 - Info-mercials, advertorials, magalogs, many blogs, and other formats exemplify this strategy.
 - Editorial Marketing looks like an article in a magazine, a blog post, etc., and it's automatically perceived as true.
 - Designing your marketing like an Editorial alone can increase/decrease views and engagement by 500% or more.
 - By simply making your marketing look like an editorial, it can increase conversion.
6. Pay attention to the details.
 - It's not "intuitive" that you can increase your response and your results so dramatically by simply laying out your marketing differently.
 - Start paying attention to how news sites, blogs, magazines & educational videos design and format their content.
 - Begin using these styles to increase response.
