

Partnering With Others To Sell Your Products & Services

Other businesses have already invested a tremendous amount of time, effort, energy and money to find customers who are PERFECT for your business. Target and approach these businesses, then offer to create value for them - and in exchange tell their customers about YOU.

What does a customer have to do both before and after they buy your product?

Who would be likely to have your customer already?

What can you offer these partners to help them with their marketing efforts?
