Top 10 Ways To Get Clients
(When You're Just Starting Out)

Introduction

Introduction

Goal:

To introduce the “Top 10” ways that coaches are getting clients today - especially when getting started - that require little or no money, no sophisticated technology, and no complex marketing “funnels”.

About Me

- 20+ years in sales, marketing and international business development in high tech industry, including a $300M Exit
- Trained/certified as professional coach in 2003
- Started PowerUpCoaching.com in Nov/2003, business growth for coaches, consultants and information-marketing businesses
- Coaching skills and business development instructor at iCoachAcademy.com
- Worked/Partnered with numerous industry leaders to deliver marketing, courses and coaching
- Developing and delivering coaching and training programs for Eben since ~2009

Lou D'Alo

Introduction

- It's both possible and advisable to start and grow a successful coaching business using simple-to-execute strategies that don't require expensive tools and complex marketing

Introduction

- The strategies you'll learn do NOT require:
 - Large financial investment
 - Complicated or expensive technology and tools
 - Sophisticated and complicated marketing campaigns
 - Existing products, programs or services
 - A big team (or any team, for that matter)

Introduction

- What you DO need to get started:
 - A way to contact people (email, phone, social media)
 - A way to hold coaching calls (in person, on the phone, video conference)
 - A way to take payment (Paypal or Stripe account)

Introduction

- What you need most:
 - Be Coachable - have an open mind, suspend your fears and doubts
 - Take quick, consistent, disciplined and enthusiastic action (even when it's beyond your comfort zone)
 - Bottom Line: No Action = No Clients

Driving Principles

- Best Time To Start is NOW:
 - You don't have to have your “avatar” or “niche” nailed down
 - Start with what you know and let it develop as you engage with and coach people
 - Use these strategies to evolve your avatar, discover your niche, master your craft while you earn income

Personal Outreach Strategies

Personal Outreach Strategies

- The shortest path from “A to B” is a straight line
- Personal Outreach is the straight line
 - Simplest way to “bootstrap” your business and fill your client roster
 - Can start today using existing skills and resources, some creativity, and disciplined effort

Personal Outreach Strategies

- You will not necessarily use these strategies as your business grows / scales (although you could)
- BUT: Don't underestimate them - coaches have used these ideas exclusively to generate ongoing client revenues in the tens of thousands per month (100k++ annually)

Personal Outreach Strategies

Driving Principles:

1. Show up where your potential clients are
2. Provide value (demonstrate ability) for free
3. Engage with, and qualify, interested people
4. Invite qualified people to a free coaching call or client conversation
5. Enrol clients

Direct Personal Outreach

Description

- The biggest reasons coaches tell us they aren't doing as well as they like is lack of (a) clarity, (b) confidence and (c) competence
- There is no better, faster way to get all three than to simply coach people
- At first, coach anyone; then as you see patterns in who you want to serve and what kind of coaching you want to deliver, use that to offer coaching to potential clients

Implementation

- ✓ Make a list of people to whom you want to gift a coaching session (the more the merrier - aim for 100)
- ✓ Reach out to each person individually (by phone, email, social media, etc.)
- ✓ Tell them what you're doing and why you chose them, and invite them to experience coaching with you
- ✓ Commit to reaching out to at least 5 people daily until you are fully booked.
- ✓ Do not take "no" personally. You're offering a valuable experience to the right person - keep asking until you find that person.
- ✓ Ninja tip: Always be on the lookout - share what you do with everyone you talk to, and make invitations to anyone who seems interested

Social Media Outreach

Description

- A quick way to have people in your social media audience “raise their hands” and self-select as interested, engaged and possibly qualified
- The opportunity to engage and qualify is built in to the delivery of the free gift

Implementation

- ✓ Post about a valuable piece of content to your social media followers (ebook, case study, video training, etc).
- ✓ Ask all interested to post a request in the comments
- ✓ Deliver the gift by DM
- ✓ Engage, qualify and invite if appropriate

Community Engagement

Description

- People with common interests love to be in community with like-minded others
- It's an easy way to be in contact with a (potentially large) group of your prospective clients
- As you become more recognized and valued in the community, people will be open to accepting free coaching from you and, often, will be good prospects because they already know, like and trust you

Implementation

- ✓ Actively engage and serve the community, provide value freely to others
- ✓ Contact people who seem most interested directly (DM, Email)
- ✓ Invite those who you think would be potential clients into a free coaching or discovery call
- ✓ Be respectful of the community rules and terms of service - you don't want to be seen as "poaching"
- ✓ Ninja tip: as your reputation in the community grows, reach out to the community owner and offer to do a free presentation to the entire membership

Nurture Your Network

Description

- There's tremendous value in nurturing your network of colleagues and potential partners.
- Sowing the seeds of familiarity and trust make it easier to say "yes" to opportunities when they arise
- Staying in regular communication may also surfaces current opportunities that would have been otherwise missed

Implementation

- ✓ Keep a list of all the people that you might be able to help or that might be able to help you
- ✓ Subscribe to all their newsletters, email lists, and social media
- ✓ Stay abreast of what they're doing and look for opportunities to provide value freely to support them
- ✓ Think of other people in your network you could introduce to each other
- ✓ Look for opportunities where you can be of value and invite conversations to explore
- ✓ Give freely and without expectation - because in the end, friends do business with friends

Request Referrals

Description

- Referrals are an introduction to a potential client (usually) by an existing client, partner or colleague.
- In addition to social proof, you inherit the trust and endorsement of the referrer
- Done right, referral enrolment success is 5x higher (or more)

Implementation

- ✓ Be proactive - ask for referrals, and make it easy for people to refer you - have a special landing page with authority-building content for the referred person to visit and book time
- ✓ If possible, engineer a way for the referred person to reach out to you, rather than you “cold call” them.
- ✓ Ask for 3 referrals from anyone you coach for free
- ✓ Ask anyone who declines your free coaching offer
- ✓ Be proactive - research your referring partner’s network, and SUGGEST people to refer to/with.
- ✓ Follow up courteously and consistently

“Super P.S.” Signature

Description

- Created by Dean Jackson
- A “billboard” email p.s. that informs your email recipients about the various ways they can engage with you
- Multiple calls to action, for people who are in the “cold”, “warm” or “hot” stage of hiring a coach.
- Originally intended as a P.S. to emails sent to your list, but why not also add to emails sent to everyone you communicate with?

Implementation

- ✓ List the main ways that people can engage with you at the top, middle and bottom of the funnel
- ✓ Write a P.S. to add to your email signature that lists the main ways you help clients, and calls-to-action for each one.
- ✓ Automate your email configuration to attach with your signature on all your emails.
- ✓ Follow Dean’s format....

PLUS: Whenever you're ready... here are 4 ways I can help you hatch some Evil Schemes for YOUR business:

1. Be a guest on "More Cheese. Less Whiskers."

My favorite thing to do is hatch evil schemes and apply the 8 profit activators to all kinds of businesses. Big businesses, small businesses, professional services - Click Here.

2. Try the new Profit Activator Scorecard

The framework of everything we talk about on More Cheese, Less Whiskers is based on the 8 Profit Activators. Find out how they are either growing or slowing your business - Click Here.

3. Join our Email Mastery Academy and be a Case Study

I'm putting together a new email case study group at Email Mastery this month... stay tuned for details. If you'd like to work with me on your email sales process... just reply to this message and put "Email Mastery" in the subject line.

4. Work with me One-on-One

If you'd like to work directly with me to hatch some Evil Schemes for your business... just reply to this message and put "One-on-One" in the subject line... tell me a little about your business and what you'd like to work on together, and I'll get you all the details!
