

Designing Simple Ads And Marketing That Get RESPONSE

Remember, the purpose of your design is not to impress... it's to amplify your message, make the promise clear, and get your Prospect to take ACTION. Design for RESPONSE.

Use these “rules of thumb” to keep your designs simple and effective:

Use a dominant visual element and visual hierarchy

Use “Reading Gravity” - design copy to be read

Keep your designs ultra-simple

Use a maximum of 1-2 Alignments, Fonts, Font Sizes, Colors

Use a big, bold headline to call attention to your main message

If you're using a video to Market, “translate” these concepts - by putting your “dominant message” at the beginning, keeping your video simple and straight-forward, create a simple “set” that involves few elements, etc.
